We network against corruption.
Dear colleagues,

It is my great pleasure to herewith provide you with the 15th edition of the EPAC/EACN Contact Catalogue: It assembles facts and figures on our membership based on the input we have received throughout the year. You can find the latest version of the Contact Catalogue and further information on our website www.epac-eacn.org.

With most of 2019 having passed, I am proud to say that we can already look back on a number of successful EPAC/EACN events.

On 7 February, the EPAC/EACN Board held its first meeting of the year, which was mainly dedicated to an exchange on the follow-up actions to be taken in response to the views and expectations expressed by member organizations at the 18th EPAC/EACN Annual Professional Conference in Rust, Austria, on the (current) functioning of the networks and possibilities of further cooperation.

The second EPAC/EACN Board meeting in early May, generously hosted by ACA Vice-President Mati Ombler, then focused on the preparations for this year’s EPAC/EACN Annual Professional Conference and General Assembly to be held in Stockholm, Sweden, from 10 to 12 December 2019.

Another important milestone of the year was the start of the EPAC/EACN Working Group “EU Integrity”, jointly implemented by the State Criminal Police Office of North Rhine-Westphalia (LKA NRW), the French Anti-Corruption Agency (AFA), the Anticorruption General Directorate of the Romanian Ministry of Internal Affairs (DGA) and the Austrian Federal Bureau of Anti-Corruption (BAK), each hosting one sub-working group (SWG) with a focus on a particular aspect. By the end of November, each SWG will have held its first meeting, with further work continuing in 2020 and 2021. I take this opportunity to thank all SWG hosts as well as participants in the respective sessions for their efforts and active contributions.

Finally, we are soon nearing the highlight in our networks’ events calendar, the Annual Professional Conference and General Assembly. As mentioned above, this year it will take place in Stockholm, Sweden, under the title “Understanding the underlying mechanisms of corruption – global challenges and preventive measures”, and I would like to express my particular thanks to the Special Investigations Department of the Swedish Police Authority for generously hosting this major event. Without a doubt, it will provide another important platform for exchange among our members on topical issues, and I already look forward to lively discussions in different formats.

INTRODUCTION
EPAC AND EACN – NETWORKS AGAINST CORRUPTION

General Information

The European Partners against Corruption (EPAC) and European contact-point network against corruption (EACN) are independent forums for anti-corruption and police oversight practitioners. While EPAC was initiated in 2001 and subsequently established in 2004, EACN grew out of EU Council Decision 2008/852/JHA of October 2008 as a more formal network based on EPAC’s preexisting structures. Having started out as a small unconventional forum, today EPAC brings together more than 70 anti-corruption authorities and police oversight bodies from Council of Europe and European Union Member States. EACN comprises a total of more than 50 anti-corruption authorities from EU Member States. The European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF) is a member of both networks, while the European Commission, Europol and Eurojust are fully associated with the activities of EACN.

Together, EPAC and EACN provide a platform for practitioners to exchange expertise and information, assist each other, and cooperate across national borders, both on a practical and professional level. In line with their respective constitutions, EPAC and EACN also advocate international legal instruments and offer assistance to other bodies for establishing transparent, efficient mechanisms. Their overall goal is to contribute to police oversight and the global fight against corruption through dialogue and joint efforts.

The Contact Catalogue

The EPAC/EACN Contact Catalogue 2019 provides an overview of all police oversight bodies and anti-corruption authorities which make up EPAC and EACN. It outlines essential information about them, such as their contact details, powers, competences, and structures.

All information and descriptions contained were provided by the anti-corruption authorities and police oversight bodies on a voluntary basis.

The Contact Catalogue also presents the EPAC and EACN constitutions and the annual declarations jointly adopted by them, providing background information on the history, mandate and accomplishments of the networks.

Commission for Anti-Corruption and Illegal Assets Forfeiture

In Bulgaria the Asset Recovery System has a relatively short history in terms of operational asset recovery. The original: "Law for Divestment in Favour of the State of Property Acquired from Criminal Activity" was adopted in 2005 (the CEPACA law) while the Commission for Establishing of Property Acquired from Criminal Activity (CEPACA) was defined as the competent state authority for asset recovery.

A second new "Law on Forfeiture in favour of the State of Illegally Acquired Assets" followed in early May 2012, taking effect in November 2012 (hereafter – the CIAF law), which prohibited CEPACA and created the CIAF (Commission for Illegal Assets Forfeiture) as a full-fledged successor. Both CEPACA and CIAF laws are still functional with regards to legal cases launched under these laws until they are closed.

The 2012 Forfeiture in Favour of the State of Illegally Acquired Assets Act was repealed in the beginning of 2018 and the new legislation was adopted – the Law for Combating Corruption and Illegal Assets Forfeiture establishing the Commission for Anti-Corruption and Illegal Assets Forfeiture (CACIAF). This is currently the acting law in the country. The two pieces of legislation have identical scope of application and nature. Under both the asset forfeiture is based only on civil court judgment (civil forfeiture), also known as non-conviction based confiscation.

The Commission for Anti-Corruption and Illegal Assets Forfeiture (CACIAF) is created on the basis of the Commission for Illegal Assets Forfeiture (CIAF), which is joined by the Commission for Prevention and Identification of Conflict of Interests, the Centre for Prevention and Countering of Corruption and Organized Crime at the Council of Ministers, the relevant unit of the Court of Auditors, related to the activity of the repealed Publicity of Property of Persons Occupying High Public and Other Positions Act and the relevant specialized directorate of the State Agency for National Security, related to combating corruption among persons occupying high public positions. The Commission for Anti-Corruption and Illegal Assets Forfeiture as an independent, specialized, permanently acting state body has competence and powers to conduct activities for prevention of corruption – collect, analyse and verify information on or in connection with information about acts of corruption, conducted by senior public officials, to verify and analyse the declarations of property interests and interests of senior public officials; to identify conflict of interest of persons occupying senior public positions; to check up signals on incompatibility declarations of senior public officials and to initiate proceedings for identifying, seizing and forfeiting of illegally acquired assets and other powers, including the management of the seized assets.

The Commission for Anti-Corruption and Illegal Assets Forfeiture shall exchange information with the competent authorities of other States and with international organisations on the basis of international instruments and international treaties. The CACIAF is a Member of CARIN Network, ARO Platform and Europol SENA channel.

The Commission maintains close contacts and cooperation with numerous international organisations and networks: Intrepid, Europol, CARIN, ARINSA, RRAG, Eurojust, Egmont Group, International Criminal Court, UN Office on Drugs and Crime, OLAF, etc.

Department for Internal Control

When necessary, the Department co-operates directly with organizational units of the General Police Directorate, as well as with the competent state attorney's office in any single case, most frequently with the Office for Combating Corruption and Organized Crime. It plays a significant role in analysis and statistics in terms of the data collection on the irregular and unlawful conduct of police officers and other employees of the Ministry of the Interior.

The Department, either independently or in cooperation with other organizational units of the Ministry:

- collects data and reports that point to various forms of wrongful conduct and behaviour of employees, and makes adequate checks thereon;

Corruption Crimes Bureau of Central Criminal Police of Police and Boarder Guard Board

The Corruption Crimes Bureau in the Central Criminal Police was established in September 2011. On 01.01.2012, the Corruption Crimes Bureau was centralized – former Corruption Crimes Services of all four Police Prefectures that were founded in 2010 were merged into one bureau. Since then, all four regional units of the Bureau are subject to orders of the Head of the Bureau and are not dependent on local prefectures chain command anymore. It eliminated possible options of conflicts of interests that might arise in the future by investigating high level corruption crimes in regions.

The main tasks of the Corruption Crimes Bureau are performing surveillance activities and pre-trial investigation of crimes as stipulated in the statutes of the Central Criminal Police. For the most part, the Bureau investigates crimes that are committed by the public officials of local governments or governmental institutions. We are elaborating analysis methods which would be efficient tools to discover corruption risks in public sector. The Bureau is also taking steps to discover criminal activities related to the EU structural aid committed by public officials. Within the next couple of years there will be more police officers working in that field than ever before in the Police force and in the course of these years we will put a big input to training our personnel.

Benefits that are incidental to launching of the Corruption Crimes Bureau for methodical performance of the activity plans for 2015 of the PBBG and the Ministry of Interior

- By launching and developing the Bureau, a great step forward will be made towards strengthening measures that would prevent and fight corruption more efficiently and effectively.
- The Bureau will be developed into a unit that is able to prevent, detect and conduct criminal proceedings effectively.
- By virtue of successful development of the Bureau, and in cooperation with ARO, it will be possible to identify significantly more proceeds of criminal activities related to corruption crimes that are located in Estonia as well as in foreign countries.
- The Bureau is a serious partner to relevant authorities of foreign countries in cooperation for identification of corruption-related crimes.
- Effective functioning of the Bureau will bring along gradual improvement of reputation of the state, growth of the reliability and lower corruption index.

FRANCE

Central Service for the Prevention of Corruption (SCPC)

The growing awareness in the international community of the harm done by corruption in all states, irrespective of their level of development, and of the total cost of this phenomenon, has led, over the last fifteen or so years, to a shared reaction aimed not only at preventing, but also combating corruption. For this reason, conventions were signed in order to fight corruption (OECD, Council of Europe, UN, etc.).

France has had a unique instrument available to it since its creation in 1993: the SCPC (the Central Service for the Prevention of Corruption). This is an interministerial body headed by a member of the judiciary and attached to the Minister of Justice. Its functions are not investigative (it has no powers of enquiry), but involve the centralisation and analysis of information in order to arrive at an overview of corruption as a phenomenon in France, with the accompanying power to transmit to French public prosecutors, detailed information that has been uncovered for the purposes of possible criminal prosecution.

Matters may be laid before it by various public authorities (governmental, administrative or judicial) for consultation or its opinion on a given situation or enquiry in progress. It conducts programmes for the raising of awareness and training not only for the high-level Grandes Ecoles and universities, but also for companies and professional organisations. In addition, the international action of the SCPC has increasingly evolved over the years both bilaterally, at the request of states wishing to benefit from France’s expertise and support in implementing internal anti-corruption policies, and multilaterally, with SCPC participation in the work done by GRECO under the auspices of the Council of Europe, and by UNODC, OECD and the G20 in various working groups. The SCPC participates in several international programs to develop and enhance anticorruption institutions and policies, and in particular within twinning programs of the European Union, such as Romania (2006), Bulgaria (2009-2010) and Croatia (2010-2011).

In conclusion, the French SCPC, with its large experience with topics in anticorruption fields, and its international targets, is available to provide expertise and assistance to requesting States in order to enhance the effectiveness of systems for preventing and combating corruption.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNAL INVESTIGATION (Dezernat Interner Ermittlungen)

The Department for Internal Investigations (D.I.E.) of the Free and Hanseatic City of Hamburg has a wide experience concerning the fight against corruption. D.I.E. is not constrained by directives of the police although its staff – currently 58 persons – are predominantly detectives. In Germany, D.I.E. is in the exceptional position to be directly tied to the privy council of the Ministry of the Interior of Hamburg. It is therefore largely independent from hierarchical exertion of influence while conducting its duties and responsibilities and is able to implement immediately e.g. mechanisms to combat corruption in all public authorities of Hamburg.

D.I.E. is responsible for the penal prosecution of corruption and criminal acts of police officers on duty as well as of coordinating and strategically adjusting prevention of corruption for the entire administration of Hamburg.

A Centre of Consulting is tied to the D.I.E. It is a major instrument for prevention of corruption and corresponding training activities in Hamburg. The Centre of Consulting consults office holders about corruption and offers a call service for all citizens where they can give clues and get advice concerning special questions to the relevant matters. Besides, D.I.E. is supported by a tax investigator and disposes of an own, well equipped operative unit for undercover investigations.

In addition to his main function the Head of D.I.E. is chairman of the Hamburg Conference Against Corruption (Antikorruptionskonferenz (AKK)). AKK elaborates concepts for the prevention of corruption in all public authorities and decides upon its implementation. The Chair of the Hamburg AKK directly reports to the government of the Federal State of Hamburg.

Moreover, D.I.E. is responsible for combating corruption in the private sector too. There is a fruitful cooperation between D.I.E. and the chamber of commerce and many compliance offices of private companies. Intensive contacts to NGOs like Transparency International as well as to other anti-corruption units all over Europe and the exchange of experiences with other world cities like New York City, Hong Kong, Sydney guarantee the permanent questioning of the own situation and the positive development of the strategic and tactical measures of D.I.E. in the fight against corruption.

Federal Criminal Police Office

BKA-Bundeskriminalamt

The Bundeskriminalamt (BKA) is a subordinate agency to the Federal Ministry of the Interior. The BKA works on the basis of a clear legal mandate, which is defined in the German Constitution and in the “BKA Law” (Law on the Bundeskriminalamt and the Co-operation between Federal and State Authorities in Criminal Police Matters).

The BKA is an essential cornerstone in a comprehensive system of crime control and works as a partner with the police forces of the Federation and of the individual German states. According to the German Constitution, for the most part police jurisdiction in Germany lies with the 36 German states. However, the diversity resulting from the principle of federalism should not lead to uncoordinated activity that creates obstacles for police work.

To co-ordinate crime suppression at national and international level, the BKA was established as the central office for police information and communications as well as for the German CID.

By acting as the information and communication centre of the German police, the BKA provides support to the police forces of the federation and of the states in connection with the prevention and prosecution of crimes that involve more than one German state and that are of international significance or otherwise of considerable significance.

The BKA also helps the police forces in the German states to avoid duplication of effort. A number of centralised systems and facilities for the German police are maintained at the Bundeskriminalamt. The Bundeskriminalamt has also been assigned the task of promoting police co-operation in Europe and throughout the world as a legal mandate.

All official communications between the German police and other countries are routed through the Bundeskriminalamt. This makes it possible to compile important information and ensure uniform application of legal provisions. The BKA acts as the national central office for Interpol, Europol and the Schengen Information System.

The unit SO 31 was set up in 1996. It is in the field of corruption the national centre of the Federal Republic of Germany vis-à-vis the international criminal police organisation. Furthermore, SO 31 is analysing, collecting and controlling information in the field of corruption.

The unit RI does provide internal reviews and audits, inspections of the BKA-Liaison Offices abroad and special measures and trainings to prevent internal corruption. The section reports to the President of the BKA and gives recommendations in all matters of compliance and integrity to the staff of the BKA.

Interdisciplinary Department for Corruption and Environmental Crime - Department 15

The department was set up in April 2004 as an interdisciplinary unit to combat corruption and environmental crime. The unit’s permanent staff consists of 24 police detectives and 2 academic specialists in the field of economy. However, the judgement of offences in the area of corruption and the environment often requires the support of additional specialists. Such an interdisciplinary approach is ensured by cooperation which goes beyond the departments.

All the agencies, organizations and enterprises of the Federal State are committed to giving their support for individual investigations by making their specialist staff available for limited periods. For instance, it is mainly staff from the state tax and revenue investigation units, auditing inspection units, environmental agencies, price control units, anti-trust agencies and particular engineers whose specialist knowledge can be relied on whenever it is necessary.

The unit itself mainly carries out preliminary investigation proceedings against extensive and complex networks of corruption. Most of these have to be classified as organized economic crime. Further main tasks include consultancy and support for other (police) authorities, participation in policy-making and advisory bodies, further development of police combating strategies and of concepts for investigation, as well as the centralized reception of overt and anonymous reports about corruption via a “corruption hotline” and a contact office.

Garda Síochána Ombudsman Commission

The Garda Síochána Ombudsman Commission (GSOC) is an independent body established under the Garda Síochána Act 2005. It is answerable to the Oireachtas (Parliament). The Commission has three members, one of whom is designated as the chairperson. Notwithstanding this, any one Commissioner can by agreement exercise the functions of the Commission.

GSOC deals with complaints from members of the public who believe that they may have been mistreated by a member of the Garda Síochána (Irish police service) or have been a witness to such behaviour. GSOC’s objectives are:

- To establish a system for dealing with complaints against the Garda Síochána that is efficient, effective and fair to all concerned, and
- To promote public confidence in that system.

GSOC provides an independent and effective civilian oversight of policing. It deals with the public’s complaints concerning gardaí fairly and efficiently in order that everyone can have confidence in the complaints system.

In addition to dealing with complaints from members of the public, GSOC may issue a report on a practice, policy or procedure of the Garda Síochána for the purpose of preventing complaints.

In cases involving the death of, or serious harm to, an individual as a result of Garda operations or as a result of the conduct of a member of the Garda Síochána the Garda Ombudsman will always carry out an investigation.

GSOC employs a team of Case Officers to deal with the administration of the complaints as they are received. These officers may recommend an appropriate course of investigation. They may also, with the agreement of both parties concerned, manage the informal resolution or mediation process.

GSOC also employs its own investigators for the investigation of serious complaints including all those alleging offences of a criminal nature. Less serious complaints may be referred back to the Garda Síochána for investigation under internal disciplinary regulations.

Policing Authority

The Policing Authority is an independent body established to oversee the performance of Ireland’s police service, the Garda Síochána, in relation to policing services in Ireland. The Authority was established by the enactment of the Garda Síochána (Policing Authority and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 2015. The Authority is independent in the performance of its functions under the legislation with a primary objective to promote trust and confidence in policing and to help shape policing services for Ireland in the future.

The Authority’s vision is of a society served by a professional, impartial, constantly improving police organisation which deserves and enjoys the trust and support of the people. Our Mission is to drive excellent policing through valued and effective oversight and governance.

Membership of the Authority consists of a chairperson and 8 ordinary members. Under the legislation, Authority members are appointed for a term of either 3 or 4 years, and may be reappointed for a further term subject to a maximum of 8 years. Members of the Oireachtas or Local Authorities, serving members of the Garda Síochána, the Garda Síochána Ombudsman Commission (‘GSOC’) or the Garda Inspectorate are not eligible to be members of the Authority. A team of core staff headed up by a Chief Executive Officer supports the Authority.

The Authority has a range of functions, which were previously carried out by the Government or Minister for Justice and Equality.

These functions include to:

- Set the annual policing priorities and performance targets for the Garda Síochána;
- Keep under review the performance by the Garda Síochána of its functions with regard to policing services;
- Monitor and assess measures taken by the Garda Síochána in relation to recommendations made in reports of the Garda Síochána Inspectorate;
- Nominate persons for appointment by the Government to the posts of Garda Commissioner and Deputy Garda Commissioner following a selection process undertaken by the Public Appointments Service;
- Undertake selection competitions for and make appointments to the ranks of Assistant Commissioner, Chief Superintendent and Superintendent in the Garda Síochána;
- Provide advice to the Minister for Justice and Equality; and
- Promote the policing principles and public awareness of matters relating to policing services and support the continuous improvement of policing in the State.

The Authority has set out a number of objectives to achieve in its current Statement of Strategy by pursuing a number of strategic high-level desired outcomes, as follows:

- Continuous improvement of policing in Ireland and public resources being used by the Garda Síochána in an efficient and effective way;
- A culture of high performance and strong ethical values throughout the Garda Síochána;
- Strong public awareness and engagement regarding policing matters;
- The Authority being a high performance, innovative, responsive and respected organisation focussed on its vision and mission.
The law on the KNAB defines the functions of the Bureau as follows:

- The development of an anti-corruption strategy and the drawing up of a national anti-corruption programme which is then approved by the Cabinet of Ministers;
- Monitoring the observance of the law on “Prevention of Conflicts of Interest in Actions of State Officials” and any other additional restrictions for state officials provided in normative acts. In cases when violations have been detected, administrative charges can be brought;
- In the fight against corruption, the KNAB is authorized to carry out investigation and criminal intelligence to discover offences in the area of corruption, as provided in the Criminal Law;
- Monitoring compliance by political parties with party financing regulations and imposing appropriate sanctions for breaching respective regulations;
- To carry out public education on corruption issues;
- In order to strengthen the legal framework for the enforcement of the anti-corruption policy, the Bureau is mandated to draft and analyze normative acts, recommend changes in these, and submit recommendations for drafting new normative acts.

Among the provisions, officials of the Bureau may request and receive information, documents and other material from the state administration and municipal institutions, companies, organizations, officials and other persons free of charge, regardless of their secrecy regime. The Bureau has free access to all information stored in registered databases whose registration is regulated in normative acts, regardless of their ownership. Therefore the Bureau is provided with investigative, inspection and recommendation/consultation powers.

The Corruption Prevention and Combating Bureau was established on 10 October 2002 when the Director of the KNAB was appointed by the Parliament. Before the establishment of the KNAB on the institutional level, there were many agencies with prevention and combating corruption functions. Consequently, with so many institutions involved, there was a lack of the co-ordination of activities, leading to the ineffective use of resources and overlapping functions. The KNAB has been created from scratch as a single agency entrusted with the task of both combating and preventing corruption.

So far, fairly good results have been achieved. From 2003 to 2010 the Corruption Prevention and Combating Bureau initiated 275 criminal cases and proceeding. 167 cases were sent for prosecution against 376 persons. 114 cases were adjudicated by the court at least in the first instance and 133 persons were convicted for corruption-related offences. During the last years, the role of international cooperation in investigating corruption crimes has substantially increased. The effective execution of requests of mutual legal assistance is crucial for the successful investigation of cases of bribery, abuse of official power and other crimes. For more information, please refer to the recent achievements (2010): www.knab.gov.lt/uploads/eng/periodic_update_2010.pdf.
Therefore, it is provided with supervisory, inspection and recommendation/consultation powers. It is also involved in tasks relating to training.

The Public Safety Department of the Ministry of the Interior was set up in 2001. It reports to the authorities of the Ministry of the Interior (who is in charge of the sphere of public safety): the Minister, the Vice Minister, the State Secretary and the Under-Secretary.

The main goal of the CBA is combating corruption where the public sector meets the private one. The CBA's activity is based on four pillars:

1. operational and investigational activities,
2. control activities,
3. analytical activities,
4. anti-corruption prevention, including anti-corruption education of the society.

Within the first pillar, the CBA's tasks comprise recognition, prevention and detection of offences against, among others, the activity of public institutions and local government, the administration of justice, financing of political parties, fiscal obligations as well as donation and subvention settlement.

In criminal investigation, the CBA officers are entitled to use police powers which may be supported by special measures, such as:

- operational control,
- undercover operations,
- technical surveillance.

The second pillar involves the control of the correctness and truthfulness of asset declarations or statements on conducting business activities by persons performing public functions as well as the detection and fight against acts of breaking the law within the scope of the decisions issued and accomplished within the scope of, among others, privatisation and commercialisation, financial support and award of public procurements as well as conducting business activities by persons performing public functions.

The third pillar covers the conduct of analytical activities concerning the phenomena falling within the scope of the CBA's competence as well as presenting information on the above-mentioned activities to the Parliament of the Republic of Poland, President of the Republic of Poland and the Prime Minister. This involves the CBA's activity within the "anti-corruption shield", which was elaborated in the Chancellery of the Prime Minister. The main goal of the "shield" is prevention of irregularities in the privatisation of key enterprises and in public procurements. The activities within the scope of the anti-corruption shield are coordinated by the Chancellery of the Prime Minister.

Competent authorities and special services are involved in the implementation of the programme. Materials verified by the CBA are submitted to the Chancellery of the Prime Minister. Other services lodge them directly to the ministers in charge while the Chancellery of the Prime Minister is provided with the copies.

Since 2010, the Central Anti-Corruption Bureau has been paying special attention to corruption prevention and anti-corruption education.

To perform its functions within the above-mentioned activities, described in the fourth pillar, the CBA created a portal on anti-corruption education on the educational site (www.antykorupcja.pl). It is a review of the corruption phenomena, aimed at the promotion of attitudes and behaviours favouring corruption prevention. The portal is an information source – an information source aimed at the promotion of attitudes and behaviours favouring corruption prevention. The portal is an information source – an educational portal of the CBA.

Inspectorate General of the Internal Administration (IGAI)

IGAI was created with the purpose of endowing the Minister of Internal Administration (MAI) with the service of inspection and supervision, especially dedicated to the defence of citizens’ rights, focused on achieving better and quicker disciplinary justice in situations of greater social relevance.

Besides inspections, IGAI carries out supervision actions without previous notice to precincts and units of police forces in order to verify the general conditions of operation and the respect for law and the applicable procedures, especially the conditions of temporary detention and treatment of detainees.

IGAI probes the complaints submitted by citizens and analyses all situations brought to its attention by whatever means if there is a suspicion of the breach of law or of behaviour that is detrimental to the citizens’ fundamental rights. In more serious cases, such as bodily harm or death of citizens, IGAI directly launches the inquiries and disciplinary procedures and suggests individual sanctions to the Minister.

IGAI is also competent to make studies, and when facing the existence of systematic flaws, IGAI presents proposals and recommendations for the upgrading of units and department services.

Overall, IGAI is responsible for ensuring respect for the law with a view to the proper operation of the services, the protection of citizens’ rights and their legitimate interests, as well as the safeguarding of public interest and the redress of legality. In a way, one might say that one of the fundamental activities of IGAI is consistent with the internal activity of the European Committee for Prevention of Torture – CPT.

Essentially, IGAI is a high level inspection service with oversight powers over all the departments and units that depend on or are supervised by the Minister of Internal Administration (such as the Military Police, the Civil Security Police, Immigration and Border Control Service, the Civil Protection and Fire Department Service, Civil Governments) and the enterprises or entities involved in private security activities. Our department is not subordinate to any unit or department services, and we only report to the Minister for Internal Administration (MAI).

Anti-Corruption General Directorate (AGD)

(Directia Generala Anticoruptie)
The Anti-Corruption General Directorate was established by Law No. 161/2005 on regulating certain measures for preventing and combating corruption within the Ministry of Administration and Interior (MoIAR) as the specialized body for preventing and combating corruption within this Ministry's personnel.

The AGD is a central directorate, which, only from the administrative point of view, is directly subordinate to the Minister of Interior. As judiciary police, when carrying out investigations, the AGD officers are operationally coordinated by the prosecutor in charge. The double subordination ensures the independence and objective character of operative investigations and allows our directorate to carry out efficient prevention activities.

The AGD's main duties cover the following:
- carrying out specific measures for investigating corruption offences committed by the MoIAR's personnel;
- receiving citizens' complaints/petitions;
- conducting judicial police activities according to the law;
- organizing and implementing integrity testing activities;
- carrying out prevention activities;
- drafting risk and strategic analyses and proposing corrective measures.

At the central level, the AGD is made up of two operational directorates (the Intelligence Directorate and the Investigation, Prevention and Public Relations Directorate) and several support units (Logistics, HR, Finance, Internal Inspection and others).

The Intelligence Directorate includes units for analyzing information and intelligence, an undercover investigators unit and an operational unit made up of three offices: Flagrante Delicto, Integrity Testing and Technical Assistance.

The second operational directorate has three main units: Prevention, Public Relations and Criminal Investigation. The latter is made up of two subunits specializing in acts of corruption committed by the Ministry's staff within the field of public order, and by the personnel within the field of public administration. At the territorial level, the AGD has 15 Regional Services, to which 42 territorial county offices are subordinate.

The staff of the AGD is made up of two subunits specializing in acts of corruption committed by the Ministry's staff within the field of public order, and by the personnel within the field of public administration. At the territorial level, the AGD has 15 Regional Services, to which 42 territorial county offices are subordinate.

In order to make the AGD's activities transparent, the Strategic Committee for Supporting the AGD was set up. The Strategic Committee is a consultative body headed by the Minister of Interior and Administrative Reform. It is made up of the state secretaries, heads of MoIAR's units and the head of the National Police Corps.

This body has an important specific feature, i.e. it includes, as permanent attendees, representatives of 8 EU Member State embassies, as well as one representative of the European Commission, and, as full members, 8 relevant NGOs.

In order to enable the public to report acts of corruption within the MoIAR, a green line (TELVERDE - 0800.806.806) was set up on 31.10.2005 and is continually promoted.

Within the field of prevention, meetings between citizens and MoIAR personnel as well as conferences and debates are organized with the support of civil society and the mass media. The specialized units within the AGD draft strategic analyses, based on which measures aiming to eliminate the risk factors and causes of corruption are elaborated; these measures are submitted to the Minister to be approved and implemented.

National Anticorruption Directorate (DNA)

The DNA is an institution with legal personality within the framework of the Prosecutor’s Office attached to the High Court of Cassation (POHCC). It was set up in September 2002 on the basis of the Emergency Government Ordinance no. 43/2002, following the model of the Special Anticorruption Prosecutor’s Office in Spain.

The DNA Chief Prosecutor is the first deputy of the General Prosecutor of Romania. He is appointed by the President of Romania on the proposal of the Minister of Justice and following the advisory note of the Superior Council of Magistracy. At present, the DNA staff consists of 526 professionals (prosecutors, police officers, specialist and auxiliary personnel).

The law gives the DNA important features of independence: it is independent in its relationship with the courts, procuratorial offices and other public authorities, and has financial autonomy.

The DNA has nationwide jurisdiction and is divided into a central office located in Bucharest and 14 regional offices. Its prosecutors are entitled to investigate and prosecute offences as follows:
- Bribery – if the value of the bribe is over 10,000 Euros
- Offences similar to corruption – if the value of the damage caused is over 200,000 Euros
- Bribery offences and offences similar to corruption, regardless the value of the bribe or damage – when committed by persons with certain high level public positions (i.e. Members of Parliament, members of government, generals, magistrates, prefects, mayors, police officers, directors of national companies etc.)
- Offences against the financial interests of the European Communities – regardless the value of the damage
- Serious economic offences (abuse of office, bid rigging in public procurement, usurping of the public function) – if the damage caused is over 1,000,000 Euros

A feature specific to the DNA - as a body of the Prosecution Service specialized in fighting corruption - is its complex investigative teams. Thus, while conducting their investigations, the 129 DNA prosecutors are supported by 166 police officers and 53 specialists in economic/financial/banking/customs/IT fields. All of these police officers and specialists carry out their activities in the framework of complex operational teams under the direct leadership, supervision and control of the prosecutor. This enhances the efficiency and quality of the criminal investigations.

While carrying out its investigations, the DNA is entitled to receive information from state agencies with powers of control, intelligence services and police. They are obliged to provide the DNA with all available data and information regarding corruption offences that fall under its jurisdiction. The DNA prosecutors can also require some of the state agencies, according to their competence, to provide further assistance to their investigations.

Other investigative powers of the DNA are: the surveillance of bank accounts and other accounts, the surveillance, interception and taping of telephone calls following the authorization issued by the judge, access to IT systems (following the authorization issued by the judge when the action implies access to correspondence), and the right of access to scripts and banking, financial or accountant documents. Whenever needed for identifying or collecting evidence, the prosecutor can also ask for a search warrant.
The National Integrity Agency (A.N.I) was established in May 2007, in order to provide integrity in exercising public functions and dignities, as well as for the prevention of institutional corruption.

A.N.I’s mission, in its capacity of an autonomous administrative authority with operational independence, is to verify the assets acquired while exercising a public function, to identify any potential conflicts of interests and incompatibilities and to implement an efficient strategy for the prevention and fighting of the aforementioned.

Competences:
- ascertaining cases of incompatibilities and conflicts of interests;
- sanctioning the failure to submit the assets and interests disclosures within the legal term;
- identifying any significant differences between the acquired assets and the income achieved during the same period of time;
- notifying other authorities, if elements of tax or criminal legislation infringement are identified;
- carrying out prevention and awareness activities, by actively supporting the partnerships with other institutions or civil society environments.

Persons holding high and official positions (MPs, Ministers), elected officials, political appointees, magistrates, police officers, university rectors, civil servants, persons running for presidential, parliamentary or local elections, etc. are subjects to A.N.I’s investigations and also have the obligation to submit assets and interests disclosures.

A.N.I has access to all documents / records from public authorities or any other public or private persons (tax registers, personal ID databases, motor vehicle registers, real estate registers, F.I.U. databases, land registers, etc). The Agency performs evaluation activities ex-officio or upon notification by any individual or legal entity. The assessment of wealth, conflicts of interests and incompatibilities are performed during the mandate of public dignities and within three years after its end.

The operative activity is conducted by the integrity inspectors through an informatics system of integrated management for assets and interests declarations (SIMIDAI). This system has a series of operational modules including the random allocation distribution module, intelligence data analysis, files workflow (creation, documents route monitoring, statuses), investigational check-lists, early warning, monitoring, audit, registry modules, etc.

In view of meeting institutional objectives, the Agency collaborates with both the civil society and with the national institutions and authorities, by means of a series of internal and external collaboration protocols.

Organizational Structure:
A.N.I’s personnel consists of its President, Vice-President, Secretary General, integrity inspectors (operative personnel), public servants and contractual personnel. The maximum number of positions within the agency is 208. The President and Vice-President are appointed by the Senate, for a 4 year mandate, which cannot be renewed, following a competition organized by the National Integrity Agency (C.N.I.)

According to the law, the assessment of the quality of the Agency’s management is conducted on an annual basis, through an independent external audit.

The Public Portal of Assets and Interests Disclosures represents A.N.I’s most important instrument in providing transparency regarding assets and interests disclosures. The Portal is constantly updated and provides the possibility of visualizing all assets and interests disclosures, as submitted and forwarded to the National Integrity Agency. The Portal benefits from a number of advanced search facilities (institution, function, locality, county, etc.) Around 350,000 assets and interests disclosures are submitted on an annual basis.

Prevention and Awareness
In addition to the operative activity, the agency also contributes to the establishment of some good practices at the level of the central and local public administration, by the accomplishment of a series of prevention and awareness programs, in partnership with the civil society organizations and with other independent anti-corruption experts.

Although part of the public sector, the CPC is not subordinate to any other state institution or ministry and does not receive direct instructions from the executive or the legislature. The CPC is not part of the law enforcement or prosecution system of Slovenia and its employees do not have typical police powers. They do, however, have broad legal powers to access and subpoena financial and other documents (notwithstanding the confidentiality level), question public servants and officials, conduct administrative investigations and proceedings and instruct different law enforcement bodies to gather additional information and evidence within the limits of their authority. The CPC can also issue fines for different violations (sanctions can be appealed to the Court).

Inspectorate of Security Services (IPSS)

The Inspectorate of Personnel and Security Services (Spanish: Inspección de Personal y Servicios de Seguridad – hereinafter referred to as the “IPSS”) was established by a Royal Decree in 1996, and integrated in the basic organizational structure of the Ministry of the Interior, more specifically, with the Secretary of State for Security, outside the proper structure of the police bodies, with the aim of increasing its independence and objectivity.

The IPSS only has supervisory, inspection and recommendation/consultation powers over the National Police and Civil Guard (State Police Bodies) but not over the Autonomous Community and local police bodies.

In 1997 an act of the Secretary of State for Security regulated the organization and functions of the IPSS and classified the activities it may carry out.

In agreement with this act, adjusting the structure of the competencies, the IPSS is organized in the following Sections:

- Section of General Inspections. In this Section, in general, the inspectors have to verify the condition of the facilities, check whether the human and material resources are suitable and if the management and operational areas of every unit of state police bodies work.
- Section of Incidental Inspections. This Section is in charge of investigating specific incidents related to possible deviations or bad practices or behaviour committed by police officers. This mechanism is put into order and is conducted, above all, in case of formal complaints from citizens.
- Section of Complaints and Suggestions. This Section is in charge of conducting exhaustive inquiries of complaints and suggestions from citizens related to the police services activities, and, in case of detecting irregularities, promotes the beginning of an audit or inspection procedure, or requests the opening of the corresponding procedure in order to rectify the irregularities detected.
- Section of Studies and Analysis. Its function is to analyse the information from all kinds of inspections in order to improve and homogenize the performance inspection methods and design and plan the inspection tasks. In addition, this Section manages thematic inspections; their goal is to determine specific facts or situations, or concrete aspects of the police bodies activities, in order to propose the appropriate measures.
- Section of Labour Risks Prevention. The immediate responsibility over this issue lies with the General Directorate of National Police and Civil Guard, but the IPSS is the external audit authority that has to take care and check that every state police body in its sphere implements the suitable mechanisms according to the law in order to guarantee the general principles concerning the prevention of occupational risks, the protection of safety and health, and the elimination of risk and accident factors at work.

UNITED KINGDOM

Her Majesty’s Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC)

The core tasks of the department are as follows:

- Inspection of police forces
- Giving advice to the Home Office, police forces and police authorities

It has statutory powers to inspect and make recommendations. The department has competence for quality checking processes, cases relating to disciplinary matters and for making proposals for operational and structural improvements. Although independent of the Home Office, HMIC works substantially to advise and support the Home Secretary.

HMIC’s core purpose is to promote the efficiency and effectiveness of police forces in England, Wales and Northern Ireland through inspection. HM Chief Inspector of Constabulary is the senior policing advisor to the Home Secretary. Four HM Inspectors (ex Police Chief Constables) lead regionally-based teams of seconded police officers carrying out inspection of forces. Two non-police HM Inspectors concentrate on specialist areas of training and police reform. A further team of specialist staff officers, led by two Assistant Inspectors, provide advice and support in areas such as professional standards, performance management, ICT, crime investigations and forensic science.

In addition to individual force inspections, HMIC carries out thematic inspections, visiting several forces to review particular issues, such as police use of firearms or workforce modernization. HMIC works with other inspectorates in joint inspections (especially on cross-cutting criminal justice issues).

HMIC was set up in 1856. At the moment the department employs 130 people. Its budget is allocated by the Home Office but there are some avenues for direct income generation, including providing inspection advice to overseas police forces.

Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC)

Launched on 1 April 2004 and taking its power from the Police Reform Act 2002, the Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC) has responsibility for oversight of the police complaints system in England and Wales and has competency for handling complaints, allegations of misconduct and criminal allegations against police officers and police staff.

In 2008 the IPCC had a total of 480 staff operating from sites in London, Coventry, Cardiff, Manchester and Wakefield, including 120 independent investigators who have the powers of police constables when involved in independent investigations.

Under the current system complaints can be made against the following police personnel:

- police officers of any rank
- police staff including Community Support Officers and Traffic Wardens
- special constables
- contracted-out staff designated under section 39 of Police Reform Act 2002
A person can make a complaint if:

- police misconduct was directed at them
- they witnessed police misconduct
- they were adversely affected by police misconduct not directed at them
- they are acting on behalf of anyone falling into any of the above categories

Complaints about operational policing policies or operational management decisions are outside the remit of the IPCC where there is no issue of misconduct. These issues should be directed to the appropriate police authority or Chief Constable.

Referral criteria govern the referral of matters to the IPCC. In 2007/08, 2208 matters were referred to the IPCC, including:

- statutory referrals - in cases of all deaths or serious injuries resulting from police contact
- mandatory referrals - for cases of serious assault, criminal behaviour, cases aggravated by discrimination, those involving serious corruption
- voluntary referrals - where there is serious concern of impact on public confidence
- complaints relating to use of anti-terrorism legislation

Office of the Police Ombudsman of Northern Ireland

The PCCS role is to review how a police force, police authority or policing agency has handled a complaint about the police – the PCCS do not investigate the complaint itself. A police force, police authority or policing agency can ask the PCCS to review how they have handled a complaint about the police. The PCCS cannot review complaints where a member of the public suggest that the police force, police authority or policing agency has acted illegally – the PCCS refer criminal allegations to the Crown Office Procurator Fiscal Service to consider.

At the conclusion of a case handling review the commissioner may recommend that a police force, police authority or policing agency makes changes to its policies or procedures so that a problem is less likely to happen again. The Commissioner wishes to ensure that policing bodies learn from complaints to improve their practices, policies and processes, and show that they are aware of the changing complaints environment.

The commissioner can also tell a police force, police authority or policing agency to reconsider a complaint. He can also tell another police force, police authority or policing agency to reconsider it. In some circumstances the commissioner may decide to supervise the person reconsidering the complaint.

When the PCCS finish a review the commissioner communicates his final conclusions and reasons. He will also publish his report, suitably anonymised, on the PCCS website www.pcc-scotland.org.

The PCCS funding is decided by Scottish Ministers and paid through the Justice Department of the Scottish Government. The PCCS publish audited annual accounts for each financial year.

Police Complaints Commissioner for Scotland

Mr Jim Martin became the first Police Complaints Commissioner for Scotland (PCCS) in January 2007 taking up his powers in April that year for a period of three years. Mr Martin does not have any previous connections with the police.

If a member of the public is not happy with the way a police force, police authority or policing agency has dealt with their complaint, the commissioner and his office may review how that police force or organisation has handled it. The service is free and independent.

The PCCS can review how complaints about the behaviour of an individual police officer or staff member have been handled, as well as the quality of a service a police force, police authority or policing agency has. This includes:

- the eight Scottish police forces;
- eight police authorities (one for each police force, which are responsible for providing resources to police forces and investigating complaints against senior police officers); and
- eight policing organisations (the Scottish Police Services Authority, the Scottish Crime and Drug Enforcement Agency, the UK Borders Agency, British Transport Police, Civil Nuclear Constabulary, HM Revenue & Customs, the Ministry of Defence Police, and the Serious Organised Crime Agency).

A member of the public can ask for a review of how their complaint was handled if they:

- have had their complaint considered by a police force, police authority or policing agency;
- were badly affected by something that led to a formal complaint about a police force, police authority or policing agency; or
- witnessed something that led to a formal complaint about a police force, police authority or policing agency.

OLAF

European Anti-Fraud Office

The mission of the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF) is threefold:

- it protects the financial interests of the European Union (EU) by investigating fraud, corruption and any other illegal activities;
- it detects and investigates serious matters relating to the discharge of professional duties by members and staff of the EU institutions and bodies that could result in disciplinary or criminal proceedings;
- it supports the EU institutions, in particular the European Commission, in the development and implementation of anti-fraud legislation and policies.

While it has an independent status for the investigative function, OLAF is also part of the European Commission, where it has some budgetary and administrative autonomy.

OLAF is empowered to conduct in full independence:

- internal investigations, i.e. inside any European institution or body funded by the EU budget;
- external investigations, i.e. at national level, wherever the EU budget is at stake. For this purpose, OLAF may conduct on-the-spot checks and inspections on the premises of economic operators, in close cooperation with the competent Member State and third-country authorities.

OLAF is receiving an increasing quantity of information about possible frauds and irregularities, from a wide range of sources. In most cases this information results from controls by those responsible for managing EU funds within the Institutions or in the Member States. All allegations received by OLAF undergo an initial selection process to determine whether the allegation falls within the remit of the Office and meets the criteria for opening an investigation.

When a case is opened, it is classified under one of the following two categories:

- Investigations: Internal investigations are administrative investigations within the European Union institutions and bodies for the purpose of detecting fraud, corruption, and any other illegal activity affecting the financial interests of the European Communities, including serious matters relating to the discharge of professional duties. That could result in disciplinary or criminal proceeding. External investigations are administrative investigations outside the European Union institutions and bodies for the purpose of detecting by natural or legal persons.
- Coordination cases: OLAF contributes to investigations carried out by national authorities or other Community departments by facilitating the gathering and exchange of information and contacts.

Welcoming the fact that EPAC has developed a comprehensive structure during the last years, which culminated in the working year 2006/2007 when European POBs and ACAs have actively participated throughout the year in a variety of activities within the Network, including in four different working groups, which have also added to the success of this Conference;

Appreciating the participation as observers of the relevant organisations from Albania, Croatia, Montenegro, and Serbia and looking forward to intensifying their fruitful cooperation with these organisations,

1. Emphasize the necessity that POBs as well as ACAs are given the necessary independence, in accordance with the fundamental principles of the respective national legal systems, that independence may be developed and maintained, inter alia, through sufficient separation from the hierarchy of the structures that are subject to the POBs or ACAs remit;

2. Promote coordination between working groups engaged in developing minimum standards for police oversight and anti-corruption common standards and best practices, working to ensure that views expressed about independence, accountability, funding and resources are mirrored in both pieces of work to ensure consistency and synergies;

3. State furthermore that specific legislation, adequate budgetary means and full accessibility by the general public are a valuable way to improve the performance as well as the accountability and credibility of POBs and ACAs;

4. Continue to support the development of minimum standards for POBs with a focus in 2008 on promotion and adoption of the standards by member organisations, and, thus, highlight inter alia the following important goals for POBs:

- Secure the respect for the rule of law and human rights in all policing activities;

- Ensure openness, transparency, impartiality and integrity in all systems created for the oversight of policing;

- Protect and safeguard the rights and legitimate interests of all stakeholders;

- Positively influence policing practices through the preparation and communication of lessons learned" during PO cases;

5. Continue to support the development of common standards and best practices for ACAs with a focus in 2008 on promotion and adoption of the standards by member organisations, and, thus, highlight inter alia the following important goals for ACAs:

- Ensure openness, transparency, impartiality and integrity in all systems created for anti-corruption work;

- Develop a comprehensive "three-pillar" approach in the fight against corruption, i.e. education, prevention, repression. Where these functions are not combined in one institution, commitment to cooperation with other competent authorities is of utmost importance;

- Lobby for national anti-corruption strategies, programmes as well as enhanced national dialogue and cooperation between all stakeholders as a means to unite all anti-corruption forces and create synergies;

- Education: Reinforce awareness raising among risk groups as well as the general public;

- Prevention: Prepare and communicate practical AC experience to the legislature and the executive;

The Academy will follow a comprehensive interdisciplinary approach, based upon research and education, and will deal with sociological, political sciences, criminological, economic, legal, law enforcement and other aspects.

13. Note with great concern that in individual European countries, including EU countries, successful instruments and mechanisms of fighting corruption are questioned and anti-corruption efforts are substantially reduced;

14. Confirm by an overwhelming majority their commitment to supporting the initiative on setting up of a more formal European Anti-Corruption Network (EACN). This EACN has been launched by Austria, Finland, Greece, Hungary, Lithuania, Luxembourg and Slovakia with the support of various other nations such as Belgium and France, during the Austrian EU- Presidency and is being followed up by the current Finnish EU- Presidency. This initiative is based on the recommendation of the Declaration of the 4th EPAC-Conference in Vienna in 2004. The Conference believes that any such future, more formalised network must reflect the different competencies, tasks, structures and jurisdictions of the various EU-EPAC members and the Network’s sui generis nature and, consequently, cannot be subordinated or attached to existing European networks or specifically-focused entities;

19. Support - guided by the will to strengthen further contacts and communication between their members - the idea of further enhancing their cooperation by various practical measures;

20. Agree, on a voluntary basis and subject to national legislation, to set-up working groups with partners of various members to work on specific topics of relevance and importance to the network. Vienna Declaration 2004

The Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies of the EU Member States met in Vienna on 24-26 November 2004 for their fourth annual professional gathering.

The conference, in formulating this declaration, firstly must acknowledge that the national representatives present have varying levels of responsibility for the creation and development of anti-corruption policies. In this regard it is accepted that in particular, the Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies’ national remit may not extend to include various aspects of national and international anti-corruption policy.

In accordance with the policies and legislation of the Member States and the principles of the United Nations Convention against Corruption as well as the relevant European Conventions as there are both the Civil Law Convention against Corruption and the Criminal Law Convention against Corruption of the Council of Europe, the Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies with specific responsibilities under national and international anti-corruption policy, inter alia, the seriousness of the problems and threats posed by corruption, which they perceive as a social disease, to the stability and security of societies, undermining the institutions and values of democracy, ethical values and justice and jeopardizing sustainable development and the rule of law. Therefore they are convinced that good relations between Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Anti-Corruption Agencies and the civil society are indispensable for a successful fight against corruption.

The Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies also emphasize the links between corruption and other forms of crime, especially organized crime and economic crime, as these forms of crime make use of corruption as an instrument to facilitate their illegal activities. The Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies underline that corruption is a transnational challenge that affects all societies and economies, making increased international cooperation to prevent and control it a key prerequisite.

The Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies agree that law enforcement agencies are at the forefront of this struggle and hence must themselves meet the highest standards of subordination to and compliance with the principles of law, justice, social responsibility and ethics.

Furthermore, the Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies acknowledge that corruption can successfully be fought only when seen in the wider perspective of its manifestations in both the public and private sectors.

The Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies emphasize the significance of transparency as a key means of fighting corruption. They also stress the importance of a broad approach to fighting corruption, such as, for example, the commonly accepted three-pillar approach of prevention - education - repression. By effective operational cooperation, promotion of opportunities, joint working, sharing of good practices and development of high professional standards, the Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies aim to improve the fight against all types of corruption, in particular corruption and any (criminal) misbehaviour in the law enforcement agencies.

However, the Heads and key representatives of the Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies also emphasize the responsibility of the media for unbiased coverage of such cases (… la responsabilité des médias lorsqu’il s’agit d’ouvrir la couverture de tels faits).

6. The heads of the Heads and key representatives of the national Police Monitoring and Inspection Bodies as well as the Heads and key representatives of the Anti-Corruption Agencies initiated by the Belgian EU Presidency in 2001 today permit enhanced cooperation in the fight against corruption, especially corruption and any (criminal) misbehaviour in the police forces and law enforcement agencies.
